Eager To Go

Dear Friends,

While Ingrid and I were sad to miss the staff conference last month in Slovenia, we didn't have to miss one of my favorite parts, watching the country spotlight videos.

I've been watching the 11 videos I have received so far and it's been an intense experience. I'll confess that while I'm not the most emotional person, I find it difficult to watch these videos without getting choked up and teary eyed.

God is at work and He's doing amazing things through a group of humble people with a heart for the lost.

When a young Bulgarian woman from a Muslim background, the first person in her family to come into a personal relationship with Christ, asks for prayer for the rest of her family, I just cannot wait to get our family across the Atlantic and jump into the action.

A staff member from Bulgaria says, "If God can plant 250 churches through the Jesus Film here, He can do it anywhere."

In Hungary, through the cooperation of the police department, the Reformed Church, and Campus Crusade for Christ, the government has made it possible for all high school students to go through an exhibit which depicts the lostness of man and the solution, salvation through Jesus. It has been a huge success in multiple cities and will be shown in Budapest this year.

A 16 year old student that saw it said, "Before you came to my high school I was sure that I was worthless, but now that I have seen this talk and I have gone through this exhibit, I am amazed there is a God with enough love even for me." That is the goal of our ministry! How exciting to be a part of it.

A number of videos start in a similar fashion by saying something like, "We are a small country, inconsequential by the world's standards." The national leader of Albania says, "We are young, and we are small. But we are ready to go." Ingrid, the kids and I are ready to go too. God is clearing the way and we are so honored that you are playing your part in sending us.

With Much Love,

— JR and Ingrid Peck

JR and Ingrid's Prayer Requests:

- That we would finish raising our last 10% of needed support in time to move this summer.
- Wisdom as we plan the logistics of moving our family to Hungary.
- That we would continue to seek the Lord's leading in our ministry and be sensitive to His guidance.
